I feel like we have a fun dynamic group that likes to help each other. This however sometimes causes so distractions. Overall I have the feeling everyone is doing their best.
Some people have trouble dealing with the stress they get from the group project. I also feel the communication should improve. There is communication but in some vital spots it gets neglected.
In my opinion we should have a talk to see how we can improve on the issues we are encountering within the group.

Our group has a pretty interesting and maybe even an unusual dynamic and that makes for an interesting format and way of conversation and communication. Speaking about communication, it could be improved in the group, not only when you speak or what you say but also the way you say it. Furthermore I feel like there should be more confidence in the group, but overall it is a pretty good and well balanced group and I am happy to be a part of it.

I am satisfied with the group at the moment. We have a very open and fun energy going around, which I have never experienced before. The communication can be improved by informing each other about the progress etc. Yet we help each other out in need.

I like the group dynamic as a whole. Everyone is doing their best to perform their tasks. However, the communication can be improved a little.
